1. Introduction

The trend of the times is rolling forward, and the mark of history will never be forgotten. For nearly a hundred years, the original intention and mission have always been the firm beliefs passed down from generation to generation by the Communists. The report of the 19th National Congress of the Communist Party of China pointed out that the original intention and mission of the Chinese Communists was to seek happiness for the Chinese people and to seek rejuvenation for the Chinese nation. [1] Only by not forgetting the original intention, keeping the mission in mind, and striving forever, can the Chinese Communist Party be young forever. [2] From the historical inheritance of the original mission to the pursuit of the era of keeping in mind the responsibility and the continuous advancement of the party's Self-revolution, the Communists have turned their own mission and responsibility into spiritual calcium, and practiced the historical inheritance and pursuit of the times. Warm emotions.

2. Historical Inheritance: the Spiritual Gene that Sticks to the Original Mission

In 1921, a group of outstanding young people determined to serve the country planted the seeds of the dream of the Chinese Communist Party to set sail on a small red boat. Over the past century, the firm belief in Marxism and lofty ideals and beliefs have inspired tens of millions of Chinese Communists not to change their original aspirations, do not regret their original intentions, and be full of sincerity, with the confidence and courage to break through all difficulties and obstacles, and write on the land of China. Next to a song and tearful chapter of immortality, with practical actions to "walk" for the motherland today, a great river and mountains have been created.

There is faith in the heart, and action has power. In order to liberate China, Sister Jiang spent the last half hour of her life embroidering the last star on the five-star red flag, deeming death as home, and generously going to justice; in order to build China, more than 40,000 oil workers, represented by Wang Jinxi, "would rather live less. Twenty years, we will also win big oil fields"; in order to develop China, Qian Xuesen, Deng Jiaxian and many other scientific researchers have plunged into the Northwest, willing to work and stick to it silently, radiating their own light and heat for China's scientific and technological cause; With the development and progress of the cause of socialism with Chinese characteristics, groups of scientists, astronauts, and athletes have won glory for the country in their posts, without any regrets...

A hundred years of wind and rain, a hundred years of inheritance, even though it has experienced ups and downs, the inheritance of spiritual genes never stops. "Don't forget the original aspiration", this famous phrase from the "Huayan Sutra" has gradually become a mountain and a flag, inspiring the Communists to stick to their original aspirations and mission, and compose a magnificent epic to move forward.

3. Strong Voice of the Times: Keep in Mind the Value Pursuit of Mission

To realize the value pursuit of communists and bear in mind the mission is most prominently embodied in the interpretation of the spirit of "people-centered". The report of the 19th National Congress of the Communist Party of China emphasized: "We must adhere to the dominant position of the people, persist in establishing the party for the public, governing for the people, and fulfill the fundamental purpose of serving the people wholeheartedly. The people's yearning for a better life is the goal of their struggle." [3]

In "Xi Jinping in Ningde", the description of the different stories of Secretary Xi eating "glutinous rice glutinous rice", drinking "Ai Ye Chongdan" and "four lower grassroots" made many people think "all for the masses, everything depends on the masses, from the masses" "Going to the masses" has a deeper understanding. Just as Zheng Banqiao wrote, "Some officials in Caozhou County, one branch and one leaf have a general relationship." Based on reality, the general secretary enlightens the people's mind, knows the people's warmth, and works for the well-being of the people. He placed his deep feelings on the mountains and rivers of Fujian, and set a correct example for the whole party and people of all ethnic groups with his profound original intention and mission.

In the changing and development of the times, batches of "heroes" who have not forgotten their original intentions continue to emerge. These communists have turned their responsibilities and responsibilities into a solid force to "serve the people", which can be described as "mainstays and turning the tide". In the process of fighting against the new crown pneumonia epidemic, the Communist Party members charged forward, keeping in mind the general secretary's instructions, and implemented "precise" actions. On the front line of the fight against the epidemic, the party member commando led the "three thousand warriors" in a 24-hour shift system to fight Lei Shen Shan. The construction of Huoshenshan Hospital has created a miracle in China and a miracle in the world; in the streets and alleys across the country, party members and volunteers voluntarily come to the door to distribute materials and bring warmth to the lives of the people. In the hard work of poverty alleviation, groups of party members and cadres gave up their homes for everyone, striving for a new starting point for poverty-stricken villages and poor households to shake off poverty and become rich, and finally won a full victory. In the "battle" to defend the motherland, the Youth Party members were willing to dedicate themselves to the country and wrote an immortal patriotic poem...

The Communists regard the needs of the people as their own needs, clarify the party spirit of "personal self-big self-selflessness-no self", and pursue the value pursuit of "not forgetting the original intention and keeping in mind the mission" in the sincere dedication to the people. Showed profoundly. Such actions are to cultivate the feelings of the people and take on the realm and personality growth that the times have trusted.

4. Continuing Inheritance: Strengthening the Continuous Advancement of Self-revolution

"The initial aspiration is easy to obtain, but it is always difficult to keep." While upholding the original aspiration and fulfilling the mission, the Communist Party members of the new era should also have the courage to innovate, improve and improve themselves. At present, China is constantly making solid steps towards the goal of becoming a strong country. Our achievements have attracted worldwide attention, which is worthy of our pride, but we must not be complacent about it. [4] Although the current overall party's firm beliefs and the general direction of moving forward are good, there are still many problems. A small number of party members and cadres lack the spirit of Self-revolution, are content with the status quo, and even violate party discipline.

As mentioned in the large-scale anti-corruption TV series "In the Name of the People": "Our spirit must always be healthy." To promote Self-revolution, we must work hard on our ideas and concepts, and we must "grind an iron rod into a needle." Perseverance, the determination to "break the arm of a strong man," and the leadership of the party must always be adhered to, so as to continuously enhance the ability to resist various risks and maintain the correct direction of progress. To promote Self-revolution, we must set an example in practical actions, strengthen the improvement of our own quality, and consciously learn from the masses, from books, and from practice. We must truly step into the masses and listen to the truest "voices" of the people. We must not be afraid of hard work or trouble, but we must "do something" if we "need"; we must calm down and learn new insights from books. And thinking, "Always look at the new, often read and write", arm the mind and practice with theoretical knowledge; sum up the experience in every field investigation and study, explore the sense of happiness and accomplishment of "doing practical things for the private", and accumulate every day. Rich experience and continuous improvement in the "actual combat". "A party member is a banner." It is necessary to produce a powerful effect of taking the lead in demonstrating and taking the lead, continue to struggle, strengthen experience, and promote the better development of the whole party and the country.

Do not forget the original intention and move forward, keep in mind the mission to create the future. Communists in the new era should unite more closely around the Party Central Committee with Comrade Xi Jinping at the core. On the centenary of the Communist Party of China, it is necessary to take "not forgetting the original heart and keeping in mind the mission" as a compulsory course. "Changxin", constantly inquiring about the original aspiration, sticking to the mission, promoting the development of the party building with a thorough Self-revolutionary spirit, and gathering the majestic force to realize the Chinese dream of the great rejuvenation of the Chinese nation.
