The reason, First of all, because the development of cultural and educational games in China started late, Low level of emphasis on this level, More important is the lack of IP content available for game development, Difficult to form a system of game design theory support, For example, the Palace Museum launched "Palace · Ruyi Picture" is a creative interactive decryption game, It takes the traditional Chinese ancient books as the carrier of the game content, Discuss the court history of Qing Dynasty China through game decryption, Once the game was launched, it has attracted the attention of domestic traditional culture lovers, But the distortion of the late IP content and the drawbacks of the single main line are gradually magnified, Lead to a rapid loss of game players, The subsequent game market clearly lacked momentum.Dayu culture as one of the source of Chinese civilization has rich cultural landscape content, can provide powerful IP guarantee for the design of cultural and educational games, in the content supply, and the profound history of the development of the spirit of traditional culture, Dayu culture into education game for the protection and development of intangible also has practical significance and practical value.

First of all, educational games have the characteristics of communication, which itself is not only the product of the combination of entertainment, but also the carrier of cultural communication, which can play the role of cultural communication through the unique means of communication. The screening, classification and integration of IP symbols of Dayu culture series have been systematically integrated and implanted into educational games, which not only significantly improves the spiritual and cultural connotation.

4. Dayu Culture as the Theme of the Educational Game Development Strategy

Educational game is a type of functional video game specifically used for education in the context of the development of contemporary information technology and educational ideas. It takes games as the means of education and education as the goal of the game. The process of players’ games is the process of building learning fields, that is, the process of cultural communication and education implementation. Combine dayu culture and education game together, should not only to ensure that the game process of the entertainment, challenging and the existence of incentive mechanism, and to show dayu culture material basis and spiritual civilization, facts and legend stories, inheritance and development, real and nothingness both cultural characteristics and local characteristics, both inclusive user's entertainment experience, and to spread dayu culture essence. Therefore, the development of educational games based on Dayu culture should pay great attention to the design of strategies. First of all, the design should pay attention to the integrity of dayu cultural theme educational game. The material content of Dayu culture and spiritual civilization, intangible heritage and material heritage, national style and regional characteristics, historical inheritance and modern development are diverse. Although they are connected, influenced and combined with each other, their respective characteristics will have conservatism and openness, real and illusory contradictions and mutual exclusion. If the landscape content of Dayu culture is regardless of the primary and secondary, born out into the development of educational games, Not only will it lead to the confusion of the main plot logic, the procrastination of the scene construction, and the false shaping of the character IP and copy tasks, And because the content of the game will affect the education and propaganda effect of Dayu culture, For example, if only "Dayu control the Flood" as the main game design cultivation game, Instead of involving real historical sites and cultural background in the game, Nor does it interpret the symbols of the national spirit either, This separates the content of Dayu culture, The player can only recognize the content of the game, The purpose of education and propaganda cannot be achieved, The game has also lost its playability. Therefore, in dayu culture theme education game design, should pay attention to the integrity of dayu culture, such as Bengbu tu mountain scenic area as a game background, to "dayu studies" as a game plot design challenge game, "yu road", "yu palace" as clearance end, players can get the next level of cultural background and task requirements, to meet the game incentive pleasure at the same time, also can understand dayu life, learning dayu spirit, create a complete dayu culture game atmosphere.

Secondly, the design should pay attention to the national nature of dayu cultural theme education games. Dayu culture, as one of the origins of Chinese civilization, relying on Dayu culture to build up the foundation of the Chinese nation, condensing the soul of Chinese civilization is an important task to develop the development of Dayu culture theme education game, so the design of Dayu game should pay more attention to the display of national style. Domestic cultural and educational games often add local cultural characteristics in the design, For example, a stylized independent interactive narrative game "Draw · Qianshan" developed by NetEase Starry Studio, It is one of China's top ten famous paintings "Thousands of Rivers and Mountains" as the game background, tells the story of a young monk and young Ink two people into the painting of the real world, Looking for the "true" story in the painting, The game with the national style ink to lay the style, Erhu guzheng creates a traditional atmosphere, Heishan green, dusk field road, agricultural writer mulberry and Qingyi plain robes not only show the long-history of China, But also will be the national implicit and introverted, The national spirit of modesty and prudence is contained in it, Full of local cultural characteristics. Dayu culture itself also has many symbols containing rich local cultural connotation, Learn from "Painting Zhen · Magic Qianshan" to add national IP symbols to Dayu theme education game can not only make the propaganda of Dayu culture more profound, It can also be borrowed by the "cultural empathy" within the nation, Enhance player recognition of the game, Promote the green development of games, For example, the golden staff of Sun Wukong in Journey to the West is a well-known national symbol, It embodies the nation's not fear of power, work hard and perseveringly, The national spirit of unremitting self-improvement, And the "golden staff" is actually the anchor left by Dayu in controlling the flood, Integrate this symbol content into the main line or copy of the dayu theme education game, To hide the hidden national characteristics among them, Not only is it conducive to deepening the audience's understanding of Dayu culture, Firm confidence in the local culture, Build a national cultural consensus, To achieve the purpose of education, Players can also experience the charm of local games in the influence of local culture, Promote the green and sustainable development of games.

Third, The design should pay attention to the entertainment of dayu culture theme educational game. Education game should first be a kind of playable game, it should not only have a certain education purpose, and has a strong entertainment, the design of the education game to as far as possible to find a balance between education and entertainment fulcrum, in order to achieve the entertaining, entertainment teaching effect, so dayu culture theme education game in development should focus on the performance of the entertainment.
Respect the principle of player voluntariness in game design. Without breaking the rules of the game, you can choose your favorite game scene or the main game line as you want, such as the choice of Dayu flood control, Yu, vassal, mother fossils and other game main line; next, on the principle of equality in game design, players can be unaffected in the game, equal participation in game challenges, game communication, and game tasks. Play in an equal and relaxed atmosphere; third, highlight the existence of competition in game design. The game is designed to give players a different identity IP, like the identities of the various "vassals". With the media form of the network, constantly creating the conditions, giving players a platform to compete with each other, create a benign and circular competitive atmosphere; last, in the game design, we should emphasize the challenge and unknown of the game. Games should create various barriers according to the needs of the audience, such as the "water control problem", "research dilemma" and so on. The player must undergo many attempts and efforts, constantly improve your knowledge and skills. Understand the history and story behind it, to break through the dilemma and win the final victory. The uncertainty of the game dilemma and the unknown reward after the clearance, can make the gamers curious, constantly challenging the unknown levels, welcome to the mysterious plot, to maintain your enthusiasm for the games.

Fourth, the design should pay attention to the aesthetic nature of Dayu cultural theme educational game. The game interface is the main medium for the interaction between the audience and the game. Its aesthetic style determines the expression of the overall artistic conception of the game, and stimulates players to make active experience choices. The tone, layout, level and even the detailed design of icons, text and noise spots of the interface all guide and influence the aesthetic experience of users. Dayu culture theme education game should focus on dayu natural period of primitive simplicity style thick, elegant, big beauty to simple aesthetic image and humanistic style, pragmatic, hard struggle character ideal into the design of the game scene, let users in dayu period turbulent, fighting situation, guide players to dayu culture aesthetic interest and humanistic ideas to feel the game, to respect nature, spread cultural attitude to the game plot, let the audience feel the dayu culture thick and aesthetic trend. Finally, the design should take into account the era of Dayu culture theme education game. Dayu culture in the new era should be firm to the unity of "man and nature" philosophy, "kind beauty" moral principles, "unyielding" spiritual pursuit of connotation inheritance posterity, the hard struggle, selfless dedication, unity and unity for enlightenment world, also should constantly adapt to the needs of times development, to meet the needs of people's reality. Therefore, with dayu culture theme education game design to break the traditional no category culture instill old customs, establish multidimensional interaction, independent choice, classification of education, new rules, according to the user's different copy wide channel game platform, diversified classification of education, relying on the network age information thinking and big data information analysis, meet the user different needs, new era, entertainment form to construct learning platform for the audience, so as to effectively inherit dayu culture.

5. Conclusion

In the digital information age, the emergence of educational games provides a new path for the inheritance and development of Dayu culture. By analyzing the current situation of educational games and exploring the connotation of Dayu culture, this paper puts forward the preliminary strategy of designing educational games with Dayu culture, but the technical problems and coupling mechanism of educational games and Dayu culture development should be further explored.
